

Mentoring Project Grant Application (FY20)

Folk and traditional arts and skills are passed from one person to another and are shaped out of common experiences. Mentoring Project Grants are designed to support the transmission of Wyoming's finest traditional and folk artistic skills through the natural process of in-person, hands-on instruction. A master artist selects an eager apprentice to mentor over time in order to advance the skills of the student. Examples of eligible art forms practiced in Wyoming include, but are not limited to: saddlemaking, cowboy poetry, beading and quill work, quilting, rawhide braiding, pow wow songs and dances, German-Russian Dutch Hop, Mexican ballet folklorico, wood carving, rug braiding, fly tying, Japanese paper arts, and more. Special consideration may be given to first time applicants, endangered art forms, geographic location or artistic discipline. Master and Apprentice apply together and include information about the art form, their skill level, a project outline and work samples.

Up to four projects will be selected for funding at $3,000 each ($2,300 for the master artist's honorarium and $700 for supplies and travel). All project costs over $3,000 must be paid by the award recipients.

Deadline: May 1, 2019

Requirements

Applicants must share a common cultural group and the art form must reflect the aesthetics of the shared group.

In-family mentorships are allowed.

Master and apprentice must apply together.

Artists may participate in only one Mentoring Project each year.

Apprentices must be Wyoming residents for at least two years prior to application.

Apprentices should not be younger than 18 years of age.

Apprentices should have some prior experience with the art form at the time of the application.

Apprentices must demonstrate a serious long-term commitment to continuing the art form.

Not eligible:

Master artists who received a grant last year.

The work of contemporary studio artists or re-creations of historic repertoires or antiques.
